ITALIAN WINES
Caviro
 Caviro is the most representative wine cooperative of the Italian territory. It was born in 1966 in Faenza, in the heart of Emilia-Romagna, to enhance the members' grapes in a land where wine is a vocation, identity and excellence. Today Caviro, with its 12,800 winemakers in 7 regions and 10% of the Italian grapes supplied is, in fact, the largest winery in Italy.

San Marzano
 San Marzano is a small village in the centre of the Primitivo di Manduria DOC region, a strip of land kissed by the two seas of the Salento: the Ionian and the Adriatic. In 1962 the DOC appellation did not yet exist, and the Primitivo di Manduria was far from becoming a cult wine for wine lovers. Even so, 19 winemakers came together to follow a dream and founded Cantine San Marzano.

Luccarelli
	Luccarelli wines are crafted in a large, ultra-modern facility called Terre di Sava, in the village of Sava, which is a stone's throw from the town of Manduria - the heart of the Primitivo di Manduria zone. Just down the road is Salice Salentino. Puglia is 350 km long; exceedingly warm in the summer time, it is the "heel" of the boot that is Italy. In the area of Manduria, Primitivo reigns while in Salice Salentino the main grape is Negroamaro, said to have dominated the Salice vineyard since the 6th Century BC. Luccarelli sources grapes from hundreds of local growers.

Barramundi
	Barramundi comes from the Murray Darling Region of Victoria, where two of Australia's greatest rivers meet. It means Barramundi's vineyards are supplied with constant water, which is just as well, as there's hardly any rainfall during the growing season! Just endless days of sunshine! And there's bloody good soil too! Soil that produces rich, ripe berry fruit flavours. It's a beautiful part of the world — especially if you're a grape.

Royal Tokaji
	The Royal Tokaji Company is a relatively recent addition to the ranks of Tokaj producers, having been founded in the Hungarian village of Mad in 1990. Acclaimed wine writer Hugh Johnson teamed up with Ben Howkins and winemaker Peter Vinding-Diers to found the company, after Johnson found the region to be not meeting its potential. Now, it is one of the most famous producers in the region.
